

LIFE OF A FELLOW

Past and present

Most of our fellows choose to continue their careers at Tampa General Hospital (TGH), becoming an integral part of our world-class team dedicated to innovation, quality and exceptional patient care. Our program's legacy speaks for itself — look at the incredible achievements of our past and current fellows who help set the standard in transplant excellence.

Chloe Wang, MD
Fellow: 2019-2021
Current Position:
Assistant Professor of Surgery, Abdominal Transplant
Tampa General
Medical Group
USF Health Morsani
College of Medicine

Matthew Hunter Witt, MD
Fellow: 2021-2023
Current Position:
Assistant Professor of Surgery, Abdominal
Transplant
Tampa General
Medical Group
USF Health Morsani
College of Medicine

Alejandro Chavarriaga, MD
Fellow: 2022-2024
Current Position:
Assistant Professor of Surgery, Abdominal
Transplant
Tampa General
Medical Group
USF Health Morsani
College of Medicine

Tara Barry, MD
Senior Fellow: 2023-2025
General Surgery
Residency
USF Health
Morsani College of Medicine

Vineeth Sudhindran, MD
Junior Fellow: 2024-2026
General Surgery
Residency
Mayo Clinic in Rochester,
Minnesota

Life in fellowship

At Tampa General, we take fellowship training very seriously, shaping top-tier surgeons ready to take on the world of transplants. But we know the best teams are built both inside and outside the OR! That's why we're big on fostering a sense of belonging with group outings, team events and opportunities to connect beyond scrubs and sterile fields. Whether it's cheering on the Tampa Bay Bolts, enjoying some sunshine on the bay or a casual dinner after a big day, our fellows are part of the TGH family — on and off the surgical floor!

LIFE OF A FELLOW

